BRUNSWICK COUNTY DEMOCRATS TO HOST SECOND ANNUAL 'COMMUNITY HEROES EXPO'

The Brunswick Democratic Party is pleased to announce its second annual Community Heroes EXPO, an event to promote the work of charitable and advocacy organizations in our area.

“We’re proud of the excellent work charitable and advocacy groups perform every day in Southeastern North Carolina,” said BCDP Chair Shelley Allen. “Their accomplishments deserve our continuing attention, gratitude and support. They are truly community heroes.”

To be held on Saturday, August 3, from 11 a.m. – 2 p.m., the Community Heroes EXPO is a great way to introduce the public to the wide range of services and support our non-profit community provides. BCDP is making its Bolivia headquarters (1420 Old Ocean Hwy) available to these groups to help them promote their goals and achievements.

Some 20 organizations have agreed to take part in the EXPO. They’ll have an opportunity to promote their activities, recruit new volunteers from an excellent base of public-minded citizens, and educate our community about their missions, accomplishments and needs.

“BCDP is offering this opportunity without cost or obligation,” Allen said. “It’s our way of showing our appreciation for the work non-profits and advocacy groups are doing on behalf of all Brunswick County residents. We’re looking forward to seeing attendees on August 3.
